

North Korea and the Great Feign

by darcy Monday, Sep 18 2017, 1:16am

international / prose / post

Nothing is as it Appears [to be] -- Guatama Buddha

Indeed, the kindergarten antics of world leaders regarding the NK 'crisis' veils the real game behind the illusion that it is NK which is the problem -- nothing could be further from the truth. North Korea has no external conquest ambitions unlike the USA, which nation IMAGINES it has the God-given right to rule the world (Ronald Reagan) and has subsequently invaded and destroyed numerous sovereign states, killed millions of INNOCENT people, had their leaders deposed or assassinated and then STOLEN much coveted, by bankers/corporations, valuable resources. That is the REALITY, not the distractive and deceptive mass media garbage that issues daily from the western mass media like sewage.

North Korea remembers clearly the civilian killing (over three million) CRIMINAL actions of the US during the active period of the Korean war. It also has REAL proof in its museums of all the ILLEGAL chemical and biological weapons the US utilised against its people all of which are in breach of the recently established international bans on such weapons. North Korea does not adhere or subscribe to a "perpetual war" doctrine, which Washington follows, courtesy of its unrepresentative deep state (Zionist) neocons. NK's recent behaviour could be summed up in a word -- DEFENSIVE. After the disastrous Korean war, NK vowed never again and embarked on what it knew would be a safe strategy, develop nuclear weapons as a surety against US and its vassal allies, aggression. Clearly it has succeeded in maintaining its sovereignty but at great cost to its population. Nevertheless, it is an independent state which has the right not to be interfered with, after all India and unstable Pakistan are nuclear armed nations.

Unlike the American, and to a large extent western people, which are mass media enslaved and managed, NK has witnessed America's violent and ultimately destructive behaviour since it launched its wars of invasion and intervention based on a raft of lies, and facilitated by the biggest lie of all, a perpetual war on a noun, "terror," which of course facilitates war on any nation group or person the US deems to be a threat to its criminal ambitions to rule the world.

So what's behind all this infantile crap presented to mature thinking people by the western media on a daily basis? Nothing less than 'containing' or neutralising sovereign China and Russia, which pose threats to American hegemony. China is out-competing America at its own game, capitalism, while maintaining a centralist communist regime, so much for standard political theory. Russia, a traditional enemy, as the US sees it, is able to maintain its lead on weapons development as it does NOT outsource to blood-sucking, profit-only-driven corporations. And so we have China and Russia as 'threats,' NOT North Korea, which shares land borders with both nations -- take very good note of that geo-strategic fact.

It is plain, that any military incursion into NK by the west threatens China and Russia, which nations already have a nuclear missile half-noose around their necks -- you see, the next war is all about proximity and pre-emptive strike ADVANTAGE. A war which America is planning to initiate even as I write. Barking dogs like Kim and Trump serve only to distract, the REAL gambit is far more serious.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2881.html>