

How Long Must We Endure This Madness -- Psychopaths Rule the World?

by drake Friday, Sep 29 2017, 12:43am

international / prose / post

I do not see any difference whatsoever in the Nazi propaganda lie of a master race and the US propaganda lie of exceptionalism, though respective populations lap/ped it up. The overt inference of superiority is common to ALL fascist regimes. The similarities between the Nazi Reich and the USA today are almost complete. Except for the gas chambers, they are complete. Both regimes delight in the mass murder of innocents, which they view/ed as inferior humans, tens of millions of innocent civilians, ('slopes' and 'rag heads') have been murdered as a direct result of criminal US military interventionism, is anyone able to draw a similarity with racist, Nazi military interventionism?

Both nations BELIEVED they possess/ed the right to the rule the world and on it goes; however, average Americans wouldn't know the unmistakable signs of pure fascism if it patted their private parts at airports and monitored all their PRIVATE communications.

I need not stress the point that America is a fascist state and has the dubious distinction of being the world's LEADING civilian killing nation by a country mile, which REALITY is offered as proof of its criminal status. Yet similarities stop here as the major distinction between Nazi Germany and the USA is that America commits its horrendous crimes with impunity. Not one world leader at the UN, sitting with pockets overflowing with US dollars, listening to madman Trump threatening to wipe out an entire nation of 25 million people, REACTED openly to this madness, though of course the threat proves beyond doubt that the USA and its bought vassals have openly descended into criminal INSANITY. But to what end? To dominate all nations and rule the world, give me a break, a vision shared by all megalomaniacs in history and yet Americans remain unaware.

Both fascist nations share authoritarian governments that relish in extra-judicial killings, torture, extraordinary rendition (kidnapping) and indefinite detention without charge or rights to independent legal representation -- a far cry from democratic representative government in a free society; both nations excel/led in propaganda and effective mass communication, the life-blood of all LYING fascist regimes. Both nations share/d the military approach to solve all their problems. Which, I might add, history records as always ending in failure; however, blinded and IGNORANT Americans are clearly not aware they live in a fascist nation notwithstanding their lack of ability to understand the simplicity of fascist government models. The 'other' is always the enemy and God is always on our side, to put the delusion simply and accurately.

The outstanding factor today is after only recent (20th century) history, populations have fallen for the same tired old lies AGAIN and happily surrender to their oppressive, violent LUNATIC masters. I find the current social reality appalling, it seems that no-one has learned anything from our collective political past and so must learn again and again, until of course our weapons outgrow our failing abilities and we all end our lives ignominiously as a failed species, surely we are able to learn the simplest lessons from history?

Yet I must face the horrid reality that the majority is responsible for installing governments and that it is the majority that really desires its own demise by constantly placing lunatics in the highest offices in the land. Though I am aware of how it is done, nevertheless, high school history books tell the tale to not repeat these disastrous mistakes, yet we do. Is someone putting something in the water and food supplies, as I have no other rational explanation? Though I know the malaise has another source/origin.

Now, without disturbing your medication induced 'peace' or pulling you away from your TV sets, I would simply state that rational, responsible and reasonably informed human beings are always able to remedy any social problem and fascism is probably one of the simplest to expose and cure.

Meanwhile, people are dying in unnecessary wars for profit, food shortages and the severe hardships these wars create for those fortunate enough not to have been killed immediately. If we fail to act to stop and eliminate this maniacal disease, then it would consume us all, social plagues have no conscience and do not discriminate when they kill, especially when killing becomes an end in itself.

<https://www.alternet.org/news-amp-politics/harvard-psychiatrist-trumps-sociopathy-threat-planet>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2903.html>