

The First Casualty of Terrorism is Innocence

by vance Tuesday, Oct 3 2017, 11:31am

international / prose / post

Truth may be the first casualty of war, but INNOCENCE remains the first casualty of terrorism; by definition and consequence, terrorism is the killing of innocent civilians for political purposes regardless of whether the act is committed by a clever or dumber sociopath -- America can expect more, much more for the following reasons.

We know that only sociopaths threaten to annihilate entire nations or arm themselves to the teeth and slaughter innocent civilians at home. There is no doubt that the Las Vegas slaughter was perpetrated by a home grown TERRORIST and any entity that refuses to acknowledge that simple FACT is party to the crime, yes, I refer to the American, CFR controlled, LYING and distorting mass media, which now loses ALL credibility by refusing to brand a terrorist, a terrorist.

However, culture shares a great deal of responsibility and culture in the USA could be personified by the nation's president, Donald Trump, who makes no attempt to disguise his sociopathy by threatening the lives of 26 million innocent North Korean citizens, at the United Nations of all places!

So, is it a surprise that a crazed American moron led by a sociopath president perpetrates terrorist crimes? Not at all. If the president, by his own disgusting, sick outbursts threatens terrorism then why not an average American moron realizing terrorism? The one consistent characteristic of sociopaths/terrorists is a total lack of sympathy or empathy for the other, and so Las Vegas becomes a social realization of a culture RACING toward entropy/dystopia -- clearly, mental illness from the top leadership to the bottom of society is symptomatic of a culture in decline and demonstrates to the entire world that America is suffering a terminal social plague, as has been witnessed from the beginning of the 21st century; today this plague, which threatens the entire nation, is HOME GROWN/spawned and has entered its virulent terminal stage, now apparent to all.

So what is the prognosis for America if recent history is any indicator? Every administration is worse than the one before it until we have possibly the sickest president that has ever held office in the entire history of the nation -- surely sicko Trump's outbursts and lunatic behavior should be enough to trigger national reform, but not so as everyone in the country suffers from the disease to a greater or lesser extent, which would end, if untreated, in tragedy and utter ruin for the nation. Furthermore, as sociopaths are the perpetrators of these horrendous crimes we should all understand that not all sociopaths are dumber imbeciles like Trump and the Las Vegas shooter, in fact sociopaths are often highly resourceful and very intelligent though they remain sick to the core, so the next home grown terrorist event could involve the deaths of tens of thousands or even millions if a highly intelligent sociopath decides to make a statement.

And so if Trump, a clearly deranged, personality flawed to the extreme, leader, continues (if allowed) to give impetus and momentum by EXAMPLE -- then the next attack could indeed kill millions of innocents, which is not beyond the realms of possibility. And to think, it's all HOME GROWN, what a real success story America!

So are YOU ready to die or would you rather reform and CURE your nation, my fellow SANE Americans?

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2912.html>