

Trump Caught Out Lying AGAIN

by jane Wednesday, Oct 18 2017, 11:15pm

international / prose / post

Trump's latest episode of transparent lying relates to his accusation that Obama did not contact relatives of soldiers killed in action; furthermore, Trump recently displayed the usual characteristics of a sociopath by accusing/blaming everyone else of lying when it is plain that HE is the pathological, infantile liar. I say infantile as he is clearly a child attempting to lie his way, unsuccessfully, out of trouble, especially when he is caught dead to rights.

It's hardly worthy of print or any other media to entertain, in any way, this obvious sick fuck, who wears his gross personality flaws and pathological traits (NPD) on his sleeve. The news should not focus on his obvious sociopathy, it should focus on removing this sick, potentially destructive, fuck from office.

The latest headline relating to the above read, "Congresswoman calls Trump 'a sick man' after he accused her of lying about his conversation with a dead soldier's widow," full story here.

Well, we already KNOW, so what are sane people, still the majority in the US, going to do about it? The US population and the world would breathe a sigh of relief when this incompetent, thin-skinned, tantrum-prone political child/dunce/lunatic, is removed from any position of power that affects others.

Trump's callous comment to a grieving widow of a soldier/husband killed serving his country, "he knew what he signed up for," is technically correct but that is not the point, healthy human beings express compassion and empathy in such circumstances, sociopaths do not, as they have no emotional sense of the other; however, they do have a hyper-emotional sense of themselves, the sick bastards!

<https://www.alternet.org/news-amp-politics/trump-sinks-new-low-call-grieving-widow-fallen-soldier>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2945.html>