

Is There Hope for the Feeble-Minded Masses?

by tom Thursday, Nov 30 2017, 8:16pm

international / prose / post

The short, sweet and accurate answer is, NO! But why?

We live in a world where all the ideologies, political 'isms,' religions and any prescribed set of values and beliefs are unravelling at remarkable speed.

Religions are all based on books/texts as are political ideologies, which men wrote and produced though some are purportedly the words of some created God and/or the dictates of some self-styled authority.

Man has created over 10,000 gods since recorded history, indicating clearly how tragically insecure, ignorant, feeble-minded the species is. Of course it is self evident that man created all the religions in order to manage large groups of people via superimposed beliefs/myths and fantasies which are inculcated in our young at very early impressionable ages, of course utilising FEAR/TERROR and guilt for the most part. Whereas the god of science, an empirical discipline, relies on measurement to arrive at its 'truths,' notwithstanding that science is actually hamstrung by measurement which of necessity has beginning and end points though none exist in the cosmic continuity or infinity -- existence is beginningless and endless, however, science cannot function in immeasurable infinity and so it arbitrarily demarks the flow of the continuous with all manner of measurements, time is the most obvious but the clearly absurd groundless notion of the BIG BANG (arbitrarily created beginning point) theory when it is plain that infinity CANNOT be measured or have a beginning point; so for those seeking refuge in any man-made 'box,' forget it, there are none to be had that make sense as is clearly apparent, as they are ALL failing as I write.

Now, it is self-evident that existence is real and all that exists clearly has a source, so obviously we are able to determine the source of OUR existence if we wish, as we are connected to it whether we like it or not; superimposed beliefs however rob us of our innate connection to the truth of our existence as superimposed beliefs insulate and veil truth. So it becomes plain that we must abandon superimposed beliefs and every other culturally learned thing if we would be free in the true sense of the word, swapping ideologies is merely jumping from one illusion/delusion 'box' to another, when clearly they are all based on the creations/assumptions, and designs of other men, NOT divine beings or some such other set of preposterous and clearly implausible propositions.

However, it was determined of necessity that very large groups of people cannot exist harmoniously without an underlying set of SHARED beliefs and 'laws', so an elite highly aware and educated minority began to FORMULATE and prescribe belief systems for the masses and then enforce subscription to those created formulations/beliefs in order to facilitate some form of social harmony and cohesion, primarily for their personal benefit, read ancient and modern history if in doubt, minority ruling elites, including divine rulers of the past, Pharaohs, Alexander the 'great,' Roman Emperors/Kings/Queens for instance, all adopted divine status/authority which served to reduce/eliminate direct opposition and resistance from the herd, though various aware elites have always been in constant battle and continue to vie for supremacy today -- the masses too stupid and cowardly to challenge inculcated values and beliefs are merely the spoils of the battle as history records and today's world presents this ongoing social struggle reality. While the masses continue to refuse to accept direct responsibility for their lives, the process of enslavement must persist, the dynamic here is large groups of people want/need leadership as infants need their parents to provide for them and that is precisely how elites view the masses, dependent infants.

People too weak and feeble minded to determine their own course in life beg to be led and as we know demand creates supply but in this form supply is elite leadership.

However, this process fails when leaders fail to provide and respond to the needs of the willingly enslaved masses. Elite structures fail when they do not deliver as is the case today and has been in the past; nevertheless, a new elite always arises as it is the nature of slaves to be enslaved and the process perpetuates itself. So there is no way out for societies that rely on fictions, propaganda, ideologies philosophies, myths and fantasies, which even feeble minded masses see through when they clearly fail, for instance, has it occurred to any American to ask HOW Trump intends to make America great again, building walls and allowing the rich to avoid taxes is certainly not in the nation's interest, yet no-one asks the obvious OUTLINE HOW you intend to make America great Mr Trump, as you have done nothing but decrease America's standing in the international community and have created evermore hardships at home?

So those looking to free themselves from this wheel of futility have no choice but to reject all learned values and seek the truth of their existences, which is not too difficult a process, as many have succeeded in doing so. However, this group have always been a minority, though empowered by the truth of infinity, and be assured infinity is all powerful, not some feeble power of a man made god that relies on man to do his/her errands.

The REAL, overwhelming power of existence is self evident and those that harness that power via AWARENESS are able to change the course of history if they choose to do so, as they have changed the course of their lives and history in the past, both processes are intimately related.

However, in the general sense the masses are and will always remain SLAVES, an expendable resource, as they refuse to accept their given sovereign right to determine the course of their own lives and must suffer the consequences.

So, real freedom is only to be had by the very courageous and dedicated few that would never accept second best or any external oppression/domination.

Toppling elites today has never been easier, as clearly elites today are their own worst enemy and never forget that real freedom is achieved by increased AWARENESS, an awareness that sees every weakness in man made structures and processes. So do what you will!

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-3026.html>