Stranger

by lex Thursday, Mar 8 2018, 1:01am international / poetry / post > her sorrow a giant mountain pressing on her chest pushing the very life from her frail exquisite body -- her magnetic eyes deep as the blackness of deepest space could not hide the loss she suffered, it seemed as though the entire tragedy of all humanity was carried by this petite stranger that asked for no help only directions in a metropolis unfamiliar menacing dark alleys intermittently illuminated by archaic single globe light poles were safe for locals moving in the shadows doing business and waiting for opportunities but hazards for strangers and the unwary unfamiliar with the neighbourhood yet she took to the lanes without the slightest apprehension seeking the address which i explained was one lane among many i trailed her safely behind in order to prevent an attack though she was aware of my presence, the denizens in the alleys assessed the stranger each to their own intentions none of which were good though as they approached and met her gaze they retreated somewhat daunted this one had accrued much power in her pain, no-one dared harass her she turned and gestured that i approach i'm alright, she said, i know u are watching over me do not be concerned i can take care of myself

yes i see that but i would never forgive myself if any harm came to u, do not concern urself, she responded i have no interest in my welfare so why should u? perhaps that is why i am watching over u, i replied though ur disregard for ur safety seems to ward off evil, people sense something though unsure of what they sense so leave u alone, perhaps i could assist, what or who is it u seek?

'drake,' she responded my god, she seeks me yet i have no idea who she is so i politely ask why she seeks drake/me unawares well it's a little involved but to simplify i was referred to him as someone who could help with an issue indeed, drake is a fixer and well respected, i replied, but not of worldly affairs well, that is why i seek him the matter is not mundane, i do not know who gave u that address but it's not where drake lives, i informed her do u know where i could find him? indeed i do i am going pact do u know where i could find him? indeed i do, i am going past his place, i would be happy to take you there thank you, $i\ hope\ it\ is\ not\ out\ of\ ur\ way,\ not\ at\ all,\ i\ replied\ with\ a\ smile$ i decided to take the long route and learn more about this mysterious stranger she didn't respond to all my questions only those she thought appropriate but the more we exchanged words the more fascinated i became though acutely aware of her deep sorrow i notice u carry a burden, i said. she turned her face and locked her eyes onto mine we all carry burdens some more than others though none are given burdens they cannot deal with, each according to their capacity, i nodded in agreement, which seemed to comfort her as we approached my house i was inclined to divulge who i was but she interrupted the intent and asked, 'are you good friends,' well yes, very close indeed how close, she asked, well close is not the word i am drake i confessed, as i withdrew the key and opened the door i see, she said, i knew there was something ... she did not finish the sentence come in, i said, tea or something stronger, tea is fine we sat at the kitchen table while the water boiled to the hiss of a gas flame i poured and covered the pot to allow the tea to draw do u wish to explain why you seek me it's a lost love that haunts me, how do u mean? well he recently died in a motor cycle accident interesting i said, come to the window, she peered at my black Ducati in the yard and her face became pale is that his bike, she asked? it's an exact match, no way, i have customised this machine with loving care i see she said, then why do you haunt me?

the room began to spin her face began to blur but her eyes remained in focus what do u mean?

you are dead my darling how forlorn i have been but u must leave me and attend to your matters in this world, what world? this is the world, well yes for you but not for me i have travelled here in a dream to speak to u one last time in this life it hit me like a truck though it was a truck that killed me, i remembered instantly i could see the tears in her eyes which welled and began to flow down her cheeks u know how much i love u, but u must let go for ur sake and mine we will meet again u know it, but for now let it be i have to finish my cycle as allotted i had regained some composure though i was not entirely sure where i was go to your bike she said it will take u where u need to go mount it and hit the ignition everything will be fine with that she kissed me goodbye and faded from view my Ducati roared and transported me at light speed to my destination alone, for now i need not continue, you will all learn soon enough

Adieu