

The Impulse of Infinite Creation

by sol Friday, Jan 11 2013, 11:34pm

international / prose / post

I am a mystic so by definition I am extremely familiar with the Godhead and the ongoing process of creation.

Knowing God is like 'falling off a cliff' into Eternity for me, easy, though the simile implies much.

Obligated by the fact that humans are social creatures and programmed to assist each other, I am 'bound' to share some helpful information regarding the Truth or God, I would add that a considerable degree of compassion is generated by the knowledge of God so readers receive a double assurance/bonus; nevertheless, be aware that the presence that is Infinity must pass through this medium, which I laughingly refer to as myself, to express itself in a particular 'location' or orientation. Consequently expressions of this ecstatic, creative Impulse may be tinted (or perhaps tainted) by the process of transference through a finite medium located in a particular time/space/place. So bear with me if you are of a mind or feel an odd connection beyond time and space (we are all One in fact). However, I would advise space-cadets and borderline schizos that this communication may not fulfil their particular needs.

First, God or Infinity is process, kinetic and supremely creative; infinity implies CONTINUITY, as Infinity is unable to 'stop' -- stopping creates a reference point which enables 'measurement' which is the basis of everything finite and as we should know both states, the finite and infinite, are mutually exclusive, get it, one does not admit the other?

Infinity is all-embracing or all-encompassing by nature, which means nothing is excluded in God's creation, everything is part of the 'body' of God and that includes you, regardless of your perverse, learned world view or the opinion you have of yourself -- so rest easy and realise you are never abandoned by nature though you may temporarily abandon nature (and suffer like a dog as a result!)

God is also supremely approachable, in fact, Infinity is closer to you than your next breath or thought, how could it be otherwise, Infinity/God saturates existence? You may now wonder why you are not aware of this presence? Put simply it has been violently 'kicked' out of you by culture -- religion/science/education/socialisation, etc -- culture/perversity constantly applies the threat of more violence, torture/pain or anaesthesia if you attempt to re-connect or re-cognise yourSelf! So instead of manifesting spontaneous Love for each other, which is the True characteristic of humanity, we manifest FEAR, hatred and violence -- as it was done unto us, we do unto 'them' -- a very perverse, unjust and destructive propagation.

Need I declare that all perversity ends in annihilation for whoever or whatever pursues it; Infinity is perfect, it admits no persistent aberrations into its universal harmony, dance or PLAY -- think for a moment, if infinity, ENDLESSNESS, had a flaw it would have ended aeons back but it persists in its PERFECTION, and how very sweet it is!

We have learned a few things but most importantly, though not stressed at the time, we have learned a prerequisite condition to knowing God, did you detect or become aware of THE major obstruction to the direct knowledge of God? Yes, FEAR, terror!

Purge yourselves of irrational fear and you would shatter the cultural fear-chains of slavery that bind you and you would qualify to enter into the conscious presence of God or Infinite Creation -- 'fear not, I am with you ALWAYS,' as it was once expressed.

So the next time you are intimidated or threatened by any person, group, government or State puppet/thug respond with a smile and never comply to perversity or acquiesce again. Never compromise or surrender your, inalienable, God-given Freedom again. Be assured that existence is CONTINUOUS and no mortal being is able to rob you of anything of REAL value.

Stand firm in the knowledge of Truth, Justice, Joy and Harmony -- which are all characteristics/attributes of God; never cower in terror and fear again, lest you remain hollow, lost and devoid of joy.

The choice is yours, but never forget that COWARDS or the fearful have never been admitted to the inner 'sanctuary!' [You would have also learned that violence is symptomatic of fear.]

Never despair, simply act and assert your God-given REAL Freedoms and Liberties, which can never be stolen or taken from you, they must be willingly surrendered.

Creation/Infinity/Love/All is ONE.

Peace.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-342.html>