

There is no way to legalise extra-judicial, targeted murder, America

by judd Tuesday, Feb 12 2013, 10:44pm

international / prose / post

I make the accusation at America collectively, not to puppet fall guy Obama and other political servants of the minority, unrepresentative corporate and banking elite.

Regardless of all efforts to distort, mangle or otherwise convolute American law, murder will never be legal. The Nazis, Soviets and other totalitarian regimes all tried and failed to legalise their crimes. The American administration is hiding behind a wet tissue for all the protection their justifications provide. Yes, America is now a police State 'governed' by a totalitarian plutocracy.

History records all the attempts of previous totalitarian States to legalise and justify their crimes, including abductions and murder. History also records that no regimes ever succeeded -- and that is my point. Everything criminal America is doing today has been done countless times before to a tee and failure was the result!

It should become clear that the failure of modern America is not the sociopathic elites that have gained power, these types have plagued societies since the beginning, it is a failure of culture, the moral majority have failed to stem the criminal tide that slowly infected their society.

America's current totalitarian model is based mostly on the authoritarian, Soviet fear and repression model, not the more skilled propaganda model used by Goebbels, who had the broad German majority convinced that what issued from his offices was truth, not the fabrications we know them to be today. The German population for the most part willingly followed their Fuhrer to hell; whereas the fear of State authority (Stalinism) is palpable in American society today.

America did not descend in totalitarianism overnight, it took decades of slow but steady work and planning by the nefarious minority forces that control the nation today -- and that is my second point, the moral majority could see it coming and did nothing to stem the evil tide. There is never any trouble identifying repressive evil and threats against freedom, Americans have no excuses whatsoever; so in a sense, they have made their bed -- US police/military are almost doing what they like in America today.

So, with the skill base America continues to enjoy you would think that following known failed models would have prevented America's rapid decline, but it's the same social disease that infected the moral majority at work. Any informed and educated professional is aware the culture is sick and society is doomed -- no future -- yet rather than call a whoa, or let's take stock of the situation before we proceed, almost everyone jumped on board a train going nowhere with no brakes!

America's inevitable and dramatic collapse is not a matter of 'if' but 'when!' If current and tested historical indicators reveal anything they reveal the complete fall into despotism and then collapse of American society within a decade at the outside.

Confronted with an obvious, ongoing bleak social reality, the wise, informed and skilled have taken to new shores in the past, as nothing could reverse the current situational trend in America; the US is now in runaway mode!

Australia is currently implementing immigration policies for highly educated and skilled professionals which are difficult to refuse; I suggest interested parties make enquiries at local Embassies and Consulates before it's too late; yes, I know, a little too dramatic perhaps. Nevertheless, Oz culture is the most civilised, freest and easiest on the planet -- compared to other nations, Australia is heaven!

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-404.html>