

Crosshairs on Washington

by gus Thursday, Mar 14 2013, 8:24am

international / prose / post

While that despicable black -- traitor to his race and people -- lackey sits in Washington deciding who he will assassinate (extra-judicially murder next) and rogues on Wall St continue to plunder the nation/world with impunity and gloat over the power they have over the president and Congress/Washington, the question needs to be asked, while they are killing, jailing and enslaving us for misdemeanours, when will we target them?

The fat cats on Wall St, CEOs of mega-corporations and the puppet politicians that serve them in Washington present as sitting ducks. It's not for the lack of targets, which present minimal problems for any sharpshooter, it is the will to survive that is lacking -- the sheeple are truly fit for the slaughter.

OK, it is a given that the moronic masses are not worth a pinch of shit, but it is not them to which we refer, this paper is written for highly trained specialists, small groups of skilled operators and those above the herd that are imbued with a strong sense of justice, moral conscience, unshakable will, but above all, ABILITY.

We are the crucial cut above, that minority force that has existed in all cultures since time immemorial. We are the small groups that have changed the course of history many times before and are now preparing to turn the perverse direction of this world.

We exercise not the PROVEN criminality of Wall St and Washington, we facilitate the moral imperative, restore the law and civilisation. Anytime we choose, we could declare 'duck season' on puppet politicians and corporatists/bankers. We have never been subject like the mindless masses, nor are we susceptible/influenced by the effluent that issues from today's mass media.

Remember, when critical mass is reached powerful avalanches are started by the slightest movement.

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-447.html>