

Who said so?

by verity Sunday, Apr 21 2013, 11:32am

international / prose / post

there is no VALID reason

There is more money around today than ever before though average people are seeing less and less of it - WHY?

The short answer is the obscenely wealthy are funneling most of it into their pockets. Real wages for average workers have been steadily going down while the rich sip their champagne and watch the mindless, exploited masses slaving for them.

Corporations have never made higher profits, paper money is more prolific today than ever before but precious little is distributed equitably throughout the community. Ask why this yawning disparity is tolerated and you will most likely meet with blank faces stupefied by austerity propaganda and terrorist threats.

It is not very encouraging watching moronic Bostonians chanting 'USA, USA, USA' and singing the star-spangled banner, when the city had just been locked down and 9,000 armed-to-the-teeth police were let loose on the streets -- only to have a private citizen discover what the locked down city and shoot-to-kill police failed to discover -- a 19yo kid bleeding to death from severe bullet wounds!

So what the fuck are you cheering about, morons? You are slowly being transformed into a subsistence, subservient slave class that cheers its chains!

Whatever the corporate controlled media spews these days about austerity and cuts to essential services remember there is no good reason that a very large percentage of available wealth should not go into the public sector to be injected back into the community -- after all, its the community that creates real wealth and we have already seen what the mega-rich do with excess wealth, destroy the global economy, manipulate the market and then demand via austerity measures that we pay for THEIR mistakes -- give me a fuckin' break!

Do not be DISTRACTED; the FBI had the two so-called 'terrorist' Boston bombers under surveillance since 2011; especially the older of the two. FBI interviews with family members detailed how they were aware of every move, web site and other radical tendencies the older brother had -- so was the Boston bombing a real surprise or ANOTHER managed event?

What to do? I know, believe government lies and propaganda about the economy and the need for a locked down slave society!

Government should be taxing and regulating the Corporations and mega-wealthy and distributing the NATIONAL wealth fairly across the social spectrum with social improvements and other quality of life projects. ANYONE that says otherwise is either a dunce or a LIAR!

<http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article34671.htm>

