

The Result

by jess Wednesday, May 1 2013, 11:31am

international / prose / post

For those whose minds are numbed by incessant propaganda and the distracting content of the corporate mass media, I would draw your attention to a few hard realities.

Corporatists and bankers have been at the helm of world affairs with almost no opposition or interference for at least four decades. Elites now have complete control over the global economy and the most important information systems, especially Google and other digital data filters. After decades at the helm of world affairs we are all in a position to assess how well elites have performed.

The past decade is a culmination of the handiwork of ruling elites; stop and think -- the world today is in far worse condition than before unfettered plutocratic rule. Today, we have permanent war, a trashed global economy that survives on money printing, record-breaking pollution, draconian new totalitarian laws permitting constant surveillance and indefinite detention to name only two choice examples; the widest salary and wage disparities on record -- in general, equity, fairness and social harmony have gone out the window. Furthermore, very few people are fully awake to the realities of elite criminal rule and fewer still are mobilising against these nefarious forces.

It is clear that sociopathic ruling elites have lined their own pockets while destroying almost everything else; clearly it is now time to rid every nation, THE WORLD, of this social pestilence and RESTORE REPRESENTATIVE DEMOCRACY to our political capitals. Be aware that ALL major parties have fallen under the corrupting influence of plutocrats and MUST be boycotted at every election -- it is absurd to participate in a 'one stable, two horse' race and pretend we have choice and we live in a democracy. No sooner is the successful puppet from either major party sworn in than he/she reneges on every promise made to gain office and begins to serve the unrepresentative plutocrats that own both parties.

I would re-iterate that the interests that have ruled for decades have ruined OUR world -- self-evident; they have slaughtered countless innocent individuals, including millions of innocent children, for personal gain. It seems that no price is too high for avaricious elite interests to continue plundering and destroying our world for their personal gain. Well, enough is enough and rather than let our societies and nations be raped and pillaged by corporatists and bankers it has become necessary to completely rid the world of these PARASITIC forces.

I leave you with a piece of comic genius which captures the absurdity of the CURRENT situation and the confused state of the masses today:

<http://tinyurl.com/cj8lbae>

