

Nuclear Armed US Proxy Zionist Israel Attacks Syria -- Where is Russia and China?

by zed - ICH Friday, May 3 2013, 11:10pm

international / prose / post

A very pertinent question as both the Russian and Chinese central governments appear to be in the pockets of Western Plutocrats. It may NOW be necessary for aware military leaders of both nations to take control of the situation. A deliberate paralysis on the part of Chinese and Russian political leaders in the past has seen Yugoslavia, Iraq, Libya and a host of smaller African and Central Asian nations SACRIFICED to minority WESTERN financial and corporate interests at the cost of countless innocent human lives.

Does the poisonous, murderous, corrupting power of Western Plutocrats (Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Corporatists and Media Magnates etc) extend to the military hierarchies of both Asian superpowers? A critical question as yet UNANSWERED. But one thing is certain, if Russia and China allow America/Israel (Wall St.) to overwhelm Syria then there can be no doubt whatsoever as to the real controlling influence behind ALL governments today.

The above once verified would require the infinitesimally tiny, corrupt, controlling, PARASITIC, mercantile influence on the FREE world to be dealt with/E-R-A-D-I-C-A-T-E-D by the overwhelming moral GLOBAL MAJORITY. The masses are tired of needless imperialist wars for the profit of the few, the world is appalled by the senseless mass murders, torture, holocausts (Iraq) and the general destabilisation/mayhem that Plutocrats create and use to their personal advantage.

The last thing Plutocrats want or rather, their most morbid fear, is a UNIFIED AWARE PUBLIC that applies existing LAWS to everyone without bias, fear or favour. Wall St rogues would be locked up for the massive FRAUDS they perpetrated and political leaders, PAST and PRESENT, would be tried for TREASON and crimes against humanity. Trials would be supported by the abundance of evidence that EXISTS in the public domain, notwithstanding the extremely incriminating evidence hidden from public view.

SYRIA stands as the last test case of corrupt superpowers working together behind the scenes -- the WORLD is WATCHING Syria with great interest indeed; I leave you with news reports of the Israeli strike and of course my regards to the corrupt political leaders in Moscow, Beijing, Tel Aviv and Washington -- may your necks pay the price of your HEINOUS crimes against the INNOCENT! I am a military specialist sworn to protect my nation and the people from the criminal forces preying on the world and Freedom at this time -- "... FOREIGN and DOMESTIC":

Israel strikes Syria

by Nancy Cooper

Israeli officials acknowledged Friday evening that they had launched airstrikes that hit inside Syria, say U.S. officials. It is not clear whether any Israeli warplanes violated Syrian airspace in carrying out the strike.

"We can not comment on these reports, but what we can say is that Israel is determined to prevent the transfer of chemical weapons or other game-changing weaponry by the Syrian regime to terrorists, specifically to Hezbollah in Lebanon,” an Israeli spokesman in Washington said, according to Andrea Mitchell.

The Israeli government has been clear that for them, the “red line” would be the transfer of weapons to Lebanon. SCUD missiles in Lebanon could reach not just Israel but also NATO forces in the region.

The target of a strike would probably not be chemical weapons depots: that could cause deadly contamination. The more likely target would be weapon delivery systems or launch systems.

The Israelis had conducted a similar strike in January, when Israelis struck a weapons shipment of some kind that Israelis believed was headed for Hezbollah. In that instance, Israeli fighter jets attacked a convoy of sophisticated anti-aircraft missiles believed on their way to Hezbollah.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Ya’alon publicly acknowledged the January airstrike inside Syria in a joint press conference with Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel in Tel Aviv on April 22. Ya’alon said any Syrian delivery of sophisticated weapons to rogue elements like Hezbollah would be a “red line” for Israel and “when they crossed this red line, we operated. We acted.”

After the January strike, there was no regional expansion of the Syrian conflict. Andrea Mitchell said Friday that that was likely to be the case again, and that Friday’s strike was unlikely to unleash a wider conflict.

The Obama administration has moved very cautiously on Syria, waiting to verify the origins of a possible use of chemical weapons. Obama officials are conscious of mistakes the George W. Bush regime made in acting on unverified intelligence.

Earlier today, before the Israeli strike became public, President Obama had said he did “not foresee a situation” which would put American boots on the ground in Syria.

It was not clear whether the Israelis had asked for or received tacit approval from the U.S. before launching the Friday strike.

White House officials referred all questions to Israel, who reiterated that they will take action to prevent weapons going to Hezbollah.

Lebanon's president condemns reported Israel Air Force flyovers, urges world to intervene

Michel Suleiman brands alleged Israeli sorties into Lebanon's air space as a continuation of Israel's 'policies of aggression.'

by Jack Khoury

May 04, 2013 "Information Clearing House" - "Haaretz" - Lebanese President Michel Suleiman has condemned a series of sorties by Israel Air Force jets, which, according to reports in Lebanon, violated the country's air space on Friday morning.

Suleiman has called on the United Nations and the international community to press Israel to stop breaching Lebanon's sovereignty, saying that such flyovers are a blatant violation of UN Resolution 1701. He further branded them as "a continuation of Israel's policy of aggression" as he urged world powers to intervene on his country's behalf.

The remarks, released in a statement on Friday, followed reports of IAF planes coasting over the southern Lebanese sector of Marjayoun and Al Khayyam up to the Beqaa valley in the east. According to these reports, some of the planes simulated low altitude attacks, as part of activity which started on Thursday.

UNIFIL forces in southern Lebanon reported that two brigades conducted exercises in the area, including searches for unexploded bombs and weapons.

Israeli sorties over Lebanon have been reported for several months now. These reports have appeared on Lebanese websites ever since reports surfaced regarding an Israeli attack in Syria which targeted chemical weapons stockpiles, as well as following two recent incidents involving unmanned drones which originated in Lebanon.

See also

Israel calls up thousands of reserve soldiers in massive drill: The IDF has launched a surprise call-up of an entire division of 2,000 reserve soldiers for a week-long exercise in the north in the first such maneuver in many years as instability grows on the entire northern border, from the Mediterranean Sea to the Golan Heights.

Iran Reaffirms Syria, Assad Alliance As Key To 'Resistance Front' Against Israel: Iran considers any attack against Syria an attack on itself, an advisor to the Islamic Republic's supreme leader was quoted as saying Saturday, the strongest warning to date by a top Iranian official that Tehran will use any available means to keep the regime of President Bashar Assad in power.

United States believes Israel conducted airstrike in Syria, CNN reports

Israel Air Force jets targeted a shipment of weapons headed for Hezbollah in Lebanon, according to reports.

by Reuters and Haaretz

The United States believes Israel has conducted an airstrike into Syria, CNN reported on Friday, citing two unnamed U.S. officials.

CNN quoted the officials as saying Israel most likely conducted the strike "in the Thursday-Friday time frame" and that Israel's warplanes did not enter Syrian air space.

It said the officials did not believe Israel had targeted a chemical weapons facility.

According to NBC News, which said it has confirmed the report with its own sources, it is believed the primary target was a shipment of weapons headed for Hezbollah in Lebanon. A senior U.S. official told NBC the airstrike was believed to be related to delivery systems for chemical weapons.

A White House spokeswoman referred questions on the reports to the Israeli government.

The Israel Defense Forces had no comment on the officials' remarks, but a source in the Israeli defense establishment told CNN: "We will do whatever is necessary to stop the transfer of weapons from Syria to terrorist organizations. We have done it in the past and we will do it if necessary the future."

The CNN report said that during the time frame of the attack, the United States had collected information showing Israel Air Force planes overflying Lebanon.

Earlier Friday, sources in Lebanon reported that IAF jets conducted several sorties into Lebanese air space. Lebanese President Michel Suleiman called on the United Nations and the international community to press Israel to stop breaching Lebanon's sovereignty, saying that such flyovers are a " continuation of Israel's policy of aggression."

Israel has made clear in the past that it might intervene to prevent Syrian advanced weapons falling into the hands of militant groups, including Lebanon's Hezbollah, which fought a 34-day war with Israel in 2006.

In January this year, Israel reportedly bombed a convoy in Syria, apparently hitting weapons destined for Hezbollah, according to diplomats, Syrian rebels and security sources in the region.

Copyright applies to external text.

<http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article34815.htm>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-527.html>