

UN Investigator: Mossad and CIA backed Rebels Used Sarin Gas in Syria

by verity Monday, May 6 2013, 9:59pm

international / prose / post

Carla Del Ponte, special investigator for the UN into the use of chemical WMD in Syria has discovered that in fact it was the CIA/Mossad backed rebels that deployed that weapon in Syria. All that is required now is to follow the trail to the source of the weapon. I would add that the USA wished to test deadly Sarin and Vx nervous gas on Australian troops (considered expendable by the US) in Queensland during the Vietnam war -- it shouldn't be too difficult to expose the entire dastardly US/Zionist plot to overthrow the Syrian government and gain a strategic foothold from which to attack Iran -- you incompetent Yankee imbeciles; how many times do you think you can 'blow it' so obviously and maintain credibility and support?

Using proxy jihadist fighters comes at a price, they lack skill and know-how so it becomes a simple matter to expose all the forces in play behind the scenes -- the WORLD looks forward to watching criminal America and Israel parade around with their dicks hanging out. All criminals bring themselves undone in the end, FACT!

Now watch for a string of dead bodies that could incriminate the US and Israel; that is the price moron Islamists pay for fighting US/Israeli wars, they become totally expendable, all part of the plan -- watch your backs, morons!

Chomsky is correct regarding social change in OUR hands but couldn't be more wrong on current social repression and his assessment of "dead" previous decades which actually laid the groundwork for political movements in future generations/decades -- nothing issues from a vacuum, Chomsky, you of all people should be aware of that historical fact.

Social change and reformation is a continuous process and emerges from the back rooms, campuses, coffee houses and onto the streets when social circumstances require organised DIRECT ACTION.

However, whether or not the completely ENSLAVED, profoundly self-centred and noticeably cowardly digital generation is able to ACT is another question that Chomsky has not considered in depth.