

Alphabet Soup

by lex Sunday, May 12 2013, 2:37pm international / poetry / post the hindu tantras

state that existence issued from a primordial sound

the 'sound' (sabdha)
in this case
is not of our chromatic scale, a G or minor chord
it is vibration
the initial pulse or heart pulse of Creation -- all sound issues from it as does matter, energy and everything that exists, the Greeks named it logos or the Word

this system teaches that language or utterance properly composed and articulated is able to alter cultural reality -- an interesting proposition does it refer to a subjective experience or to an objective Reality?

if the latter is indicated then the source of all magical incantations and spells is revealed

(ceremonial) magic
is the art of effecting change in the real world via the exercise of will
and ritual;
a decision is made
and appropriate actions are taken to realise that decision yet a broader view reveals that synchronising the rhythm of personal being with the pulse of universal Creation enables the individual to merge with the infinite, the forever

but to what end?

perhaps to gain awareness beyond a mole's existence or to appreciate the continuity of existence/Infinity

All knowledge is available in the continuum – the only complete body of knowledge in existence

the primary purpose is to gain freedom/liberation or personal release from the erroneous, inculcated beliefs and restrictive conventions of culture

perverse patterns, directions and behaviours lose their impelling and compelling force, fear loses its grip/influence in the clear light of
of this knowledge,
the most important cultural knowledge is reduced to meaninglessness indeed there are no limits to its power but everything in due course, for now

it may serve us well to realise that all assaults on language are assaults on social/cultural reality but no-one has a monopoly on language or reality

if your thoughts are framed in cultural signs and symbols and charged with emotion know that you are subject to that culture

if your mind is saturated with the continuity of existence your stream of consciousness merges with the river from which all creation sprang mind what you say

and what you believe,
language seems benign
but the Australian government has just appropriated millions in inactive investments and accounts by simply labelling those funds 'unclaimed' -- the statutory limit was reduced from seven to three years
if those funds had not been utilised yet the fact remains, only a very small percentage of inactive funds would fall into the category of actual 'unclaimed' moneys

the above is just one example of how language is used to alter your investment reality and appropriate your financial assets

first Cyprus now Australia ...

<http://cleaves.zapto.org/news/attachments/aug2008/garlandofletters.pdf>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-552.html>