

A Virus Called Fear -- Short movie

by lenni Tuesday, May 14 2013, 7:16am

international / prose / post

This excellent short doco film addresses what most people avoid -- their terrified state of being. Fear enables politicians like Bush, Cheney, Obama and their ilk to manipulate the masses to their advantage. See how rational fears have been displaced by irrational fears, which are used today to advantage by various elite groups, politicians, and of course propagandists/advertising agencies.

Gain an understanding of how scurrilous types utilise fear against your best interests and to their great advantage.

We note how a major city, Boston, was recently (unconstitutionally) locked down and surrendered to paramilitary police, who insisted on an illegal, warrantless door-to-door (absurd) search when traditional police detective methods would have proven far more effective.

Note how a fear campaign easily induced citizens to surrender their rights to armed, moron, police.

In the end the suspect was discovered by a citizen, which proves the point that you simply DO NOT lock down an entire city for ONE severely wounded 19yo suspect. Irrational fear proved highly efficient and effective for the forces that wish to implement lock-downs in the future.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=O-VLHNpwju0>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-556.html>