

White Verse

by faro Friday, May 17 2013, 11:32am international / poetry / post after years refining the art

i finally mastered
the invisible poem, white text on white background inscriptions written on the wind by the wind an entire world opened, verse seemed to saturate all existence

i could not turn my head without another inscription appearing

but it was only my desire chasing itself into oblivion like a circle with infinite beginnings but no ending i have learned not to allow those polar extremes/binaries to dominate my themes

so i settled for a sea poem written on the sea by the sea
-- very wet punctuated by sperm whales framed by dolphins but delivered by a white pointer

The Science Delusion

Whether or not this video has any relevance to the poem is immaterial, it is well worth watching.

