

There is nothing mystical about Mystics

by neall Monday, May 27 2013, 4:14am

international / prose / post

The random quotes on this site (left column) presented one by chance that caught my eye; the quote is attributed to the mythical Hindu God Vishnu, who it is believed, has incarnated as such illustrious personages and social reformers as Krishna and Buddha, to name only two of his many incarnations -- the quote runs as follows, "whenever the Dharma is threatened I incarnate;" and as Vishnu is a primary Deity in the Hindu pantheon/trinity, with Brahma and Siva, his presence is guaranteed to restore the 'Dharma' (natural character/order/balance/integrity of things, or the primary reason/purpose of existence) which always seems to be under threat from evil forces on this plane.

The quote mystifies, is misunderstood, or is simply disregarded as fanciful by most people yet its import is huge; what in fact is being stated is nothing less than total social reform and the elimination of all perverse and evil social influences/forces that plague a given society -- a very bold statement, indeed.

But there is much more to it than meets initial disregard.

Consider the social times when most (avatars) 'saviours' appear, they were all characterised by massive corruption, greed in high places, social conflict/unrest and widespread INJUSTICE -- very similar to prevailing social conditions today; we have for example, a so-called democratic leader that actually boasts a mafia style murder list, not to mention his nation's record of MASS MURDER and civilian killing (Iraq HOLOCAUST), legalised TORTURE, indefinite detention and a host of other draconian surveillance and illegal intrusion 'laws!' Nevertheless, it will get a lot worse before it gets better, for the SIMPLE reason that the abused masses have done NOTHING to rectify the problem -- and for that neglect/ommission they will pay a very high price indeed, as these negative forces once released on a society ALWAYS see to its ruin or demise!

The problem today is far greater than it has ever been, as the destructive influences today have a global impact!

Now let's demystify the term, 'Mystic.' First we must REMEMBER that we are all part of a greater universal whole, not separate entities as some idiotic ideologies would have us believe; we are all connected to each other as a species and to the entire infinite universe that sustains us, so it is not unusual that a certain percentage of humans are aware or become aware of the ENDURING connection to a greater universal HARMONY/PERFECTION -- we are ALL connected, as we did not spring forth from a vacuum!

Mystics are simply persons that are aware of this connection and usually express, to their fellow human beings, the need to re-establish our connection if it is lost.

I would add that certain triggers in nature exist to assist in the return to reason/sanity/survival. We witness these changes biologically as mutations, and socially as exceptional skills or genius -- these attributes allow for the creation of remedies to existing destructive or nihilistic pressures, as positive mutation and genius exist outside the normal range of experience and imposed limitations.

Therefore all negative pressure produces POSITIVE change by consequence, NEVER forget that reality! Universal harmony prevails whether we like it or not and negative destructive forces are ALWAYS corrected or eliminated -- remember, the universe/existence is INFINITE, which means its formula for survival is flawless/PERFECT!

Harmony is ALWAYS RESTORED -- now we get a glimmer of meaning from Vishnu's bold DECLARATION. It is actually a simple matter of dynamics.

Now consider the social and environmental travesty prevailing as I write; a tiny minority is accumulating vast wealth at the EXPENSE of the planet and other human beings, in other words creating a monumental imbalance/disparity or discord/disharmony.

This minority is acutely aware of its actions and the cruel injustices it imposes on the vast majority of human beings and the extreme pressure it places on the environment/planet in the form of pollution. As a direct result of all its actions, this minority has become morbidly afraid of a likely backlash. Indeed, the blowback which ironically has been created by this minority, will see it totally destroyed or annihilated, one needn't be clairvoyant or prophetic to see natural consequence in action.

The environmental situation will take care of itself, as it has always done. However, the social situation will correct itself when 'critical mass' is [soon] reached. Social change will be swift and probably violent, however, reform will be complete.

Change would most likely be triggered by a small event, which in turn provokes a mass response -- the species will awaken to its inherent 'connectiveness' ONENESS and the PERVERSE ideology of separation or DIVISION, which has been used to great success by the minority, will be spontaneously overcome.

Expressed another way, the MINORITY POSITION has become UNTENABLE!

We should now readily appreciate how certain social dynamics produce a figurative 'incarnation of Vishnu' -- the infinite universe always restores the balance (as Dharma) and its harmony; notwithstanding, that humans are sometimes slow to get the point!

A final message to the evil minority. You are creating all the forces necessary to see to your own demise; your addictions, greed, selfishness and other perversions have sealed your fate; however, as insurance we watch closely in order to ensure that certain social energies are directed to the deserving recipients. Think nothing of it, and thanks again for doing all the heavy lifting.

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-581.html>