

The Fear of Freedom

by dani Saturday, Jun 15 2013, 1:36pm

international / prose / post

Do not be too quick to laugh, as real freedom is a rare commodity these days. Consider America, once addicted to the word, now a pan-surveillance Police State, locked down with paramilitary police conducting illegal warrantless, door to door searches for ONE severely wounded teenager. The US population welcomes more and more oppressive policies from its criminal government, which is keeping us safe while increasing the threat of attack by slaughtering innocent civilians on a daily basis -- make sense, does it!?

Two distinct types of human exist with contrasting attitudes to Freedom, radicals that bathe in it and conservatives that are so fear ridden they are unable to live outside a box of rules, regulations and constraints -- and if you display any amount of radical freedom to this group they will turn on you with the intent of destroying you as you remind them of their cowardice and fear of Freedom. However, radicals 'live and let live,' as the Love of Freedom is their most distinct characteristic.

Freedom is NOT indefinite detention or extraordinary rendition, torture, spying on citizens, legalised murder and secret kill lists -- definitely not. The USA is ideologically, logically and culturally imploding -- it is more removed from Freedom than China. China is rapidly expanding culturally while the USA is contracting in fear, imploding.

But to be sure we should understand that Freedom implies a constraining influence or barrier, there is no freedom without confinement; when idiot politicians bandy that word around ask them pointedly, "freedom from what? In the case of the United States, the population seeks Freedom from fear and the contractionism of oppressive government, while the world wishes to be Free of the meddling and intervening United States of mass murder! Make sense does it, morons? Do not be afraid to think freely and determine your own course, chicken shits!

Fancy allowing yourselves to be intimidated by the likes of a kretin like dubya Bush and a black fag (Obama) you must be kidding somebody, probably yourselves. Though the Fear of Freedom has many permutations.

If you're interested, the most FREE nation on the planet today is Oz, come and see for yourselves and believe, but you are probably too frightened to emerge from your box!

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-631.html>