

Restore Representative Democracy, it's that Simple

I have just completed reading a transcript of an interview with defeatist rhetorician, Chris Hedges, and if leopards continue to have spots then Hedges has maintained his negativity and defeatist discourse.

Paul Jay asked Hedges what could the 'socialist left,' whoever they are, (?) DO today to effectively counter the Corporatist forces and Plutocrats that have hijacked most western democracies. Hedges referred to numerous green and other quaint alternative hobbyist projects that barely have a following outside the tiny enclaves where they exist, like establishing local gardens for food and revamping the Occupy 'movement,' with necessary improvements such as clearly defined objectives and organisational discipline, something constructive critics were screaming at the time but were side-lined by the forces contracted by Washington to create a Clayton's movement, ie., the 'movement' you have when you're not having a movement! The fact that OTPOR/CANVAS was involved -- the group largely responsible for instigating the destruction of Yugoslavia, the demise of which Hedges covered as a journalist for a mainstream media outlet -- didn't seem to bother anyone at the time!

We should not forget that Hedges supported and promoted this non-event 'movement' at the cost of forming REAL effective strategies to restore law, order and justice to his nation. Hedges, who clearly knows better, was content to distract from effective solutions and play along with a bunch of wet-behind-the-ears, middle class kids whose boldest offensive strategy was to sit passively while fascist police emptied a large cannister of pepper spray on them, my God, ancient Sparta would be impressed!

Media personalities and commentators like Hedges who supported the miscarried 'Occupy' movement with glee, need to answer a lot more questions than Paul Jay was willing to ask, you reading this Paul? But Hedges seems to enjoy playing along and subtly steering naive middle class kids, we can only wonder why, when the most VIABLE SOLUTION is staring everyone in the face! A supremely EFFECTIVE peaceful strategy and REAL SOLUTION that is accessible to EVERYONE!

To RESTORE REPRESENTATIVE DEMOCRACY in former democratic nations simply BOYCOTT all MAJOR (owned) POLITICAL PARTIES and VOTE ONLY REPRESENTATIVE INDEPENDENTS into OFFICE at every level of government, yes, it's that easy! All that is required is a nation-wide information campaign -- another simple proposition with today's digital technologies. Now why didn't I think of that? Doh!

The above is by far the most viable and simplest strategy for today; however, where peaceful means cannot be employed then it's as simple as shooting the cunts! And if you're in some doubt about targets then start with the people that treat the population as enemies. Kill list/torture/indefinite detention presidents perhaps and EVERYONE associated, especially the Attorney General and other senior bureaucrats supporting the OVERTLY criminal White House today.

And you morons thought it couldn't be done; as previously stated in the clearest of terms; in today's world a single individual with exceptional skills is capable of overthrowing a STATE! And to think that the individual that spelled out the solution makes no claim to anything and never will! All that is required from the many narcissists out there who want their picture on the front cover of TIME magazine is to claim YOU invented the OBVIOUS solution. No argument from me, I wouldn't sell my freedom for all the money the Fed has ever printed!

Everyone is able to participate in the global information campaign, now is the time for simple, supremely effective ACTION, not endless distractions and circular, ineffective discourse.

A note to Google and allied data management organisations/agencies; this is the one piece you must prevent from being disseminated. Now go tell your Bilderberg associates it's OVER!
