

"XKeyScore" Easily Circumvented

by skip Saturday, Aug 3 2013, 4:52am

international / prose / post

but no-one is listening to reason

Firstly, the latest alarming (for gullible morons) revelation from Snowden/Greenwald is the search and aggregate NSA package named "XKeyScore," which has the ability to track your every movement on the Internet; the Guardian link covers it adequately. However, it is far from the Big Brother wet dream of the most anal control freaks, as it has a serious inadequacy, which Snowden revealed -- and this man/agent is very noticeably careful with his words.

Ed Snowden: ".. sitting at my desk, I could wiretap anyone, from you or your accountant, to a federal judge or even the president, if I had a personal email". [Emphasis added.]

It only records internet activity and cannot finger anyone that does not supply personal details, like a PERSONAL email etc, that means using your real name or phone number that is linked to any plastic or other traceable item that could identify you -- too fuckin easy to avoid for those with a brain instead of mush in their heads.

Now guess what, morons? Our highly efficient underground community has never used any real identifiers on the net for the simple reason we know better -- and how many times have we warned you idiots about supplying real personal details? Too numerous to count over the PAST DECADE!

Well, we told you so and XKS is not the half of it; by far the most INVASIVE package is "TRAPWIRE" as it uses everything available to XKS with the ADDITION of real-time face recognition tracing in the REAL WORLD, now that is the REAL wet dream of control freaks and it has existed for years! So now what gives?

We informed you previously that the REAL BATTLE IS FOR YOUR MIND, if you believe that 'they' have power over you then they do. But if you QUESTION or ANALYZE, media bullshit -- and in this sense Greenwald is a useful idiot -- the REALITY becomes known and you begin to S-E-E! So while you're fascinated/distracted with Greenwald's pennies, 'XKS,' they are implementing TRAPWIRE right under your distracted, moronic noses.

Now, what have we learned today slaves? Yes, you're all being 'softened up' for the likes of TRAPWIRE and other such packages AND that you're all gullible cowering cowards that deserve everything you get -- you're not worth a pinch of shit, and if you think I'm harsh you wouldn't believe the absolute contempt ruling elites have for the masses; so now, quick, get back to your social networks and inform us all that you have hairy nipples and 2" dicks!

I remember one of many humorous experiences that you may enjoy; a person that took a fancy to me wanted my personal details in order to locate me on 'myarse' or 'facefuck,' and establish a digital relationship; I refused to reveal any more info than I usually allow in perimeter social circles, which is never my real surname or contact details, though I do use bogus email accounts. However, this person was noticeably upset that I would not reveal the requested info, so I explained that I was a very private person -- which I'm clearly not -- and didn't wish to publish or make my details available to unknown third parties on the net. The person was furious and took my refusal as a personal insult and then called 'me' a paranoid, nut case -- lol. I won't reveal who is having the last laugh today.

Very few are able to handle hard reality these days as it forces one to take full responsibility for one's life and no-one wants to know about that!

".. if I had a personal email," or other identifier. In other words XKS is very limited. But beware of continuous face recognition packages that link to every surveillance camera installed in your location, they trace in real time in the REAL WORLD, as opposed to the digital world of the internet. Real world surveillance can also be beaten but that for a future rant or paper! Now go back to bed America, your criminal government is fucking YOU up the arse.

<http://www.theguardian.com/world/2013/jul/31/nsa-top-secret-program-online-data>

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-730.html>