The Way

by lyn Friday, Aug 31 2012, 1:42pm international / poetry / post no cross exists to hang this body on no bough lends itself for such a task; this body will not be impaled

i continue to give (freely) that is the only reason i exist it flows without condition or restraint

you are not able to stem this flow or diminish this tide you simply do not understand that you are unable to affect its course

how long does it take for some to learn that nothing is able to restrict this expression?

fed to the dogs since infancy targeted relentlessly throughout life i discovered that yielding is the strongest weapon and my greatest strength inform me when you are able to bruise water or striate the air; your frenzied attempts to wound betray your sadistic and incurable madness, will you never find peace?

divested of everything held sacred stripped bare of all protective layers i was forced to locate the one saving grace, the power that sustains all things that substance nothing is able to injure.

so now i share this secret openly though offers are largely ignored signs in the forest disappear in time make haste if you would find the markings and signposts i left to guide you to salvation and freedom.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-80.html