

Oz Labor has learnt Nothing

by sonny Monday, Sep 9 2013, 11:57am

international / prose / post

Indeed, there is no hope for the ALP as public recriminations have already begun to make headlines -- I mean for fuck's sake, if you must argue do it in private behind closed doors, you bunch of self-centred, insular infants. After the fact Labor insiders have begun to pour scorn on Rudd AGAIN, so why did they give a KNOWN pathological quantity another go? I wouldn't let a flawed personality like Rudd feed chickens? Accept responsibility for your actions and plan an opposition strategy to easily destroy Abbott!

Tony Abbott, corporate lackey and dunce

Jesuit attack dog Abbott, is so easily beaten it's a joke yet no-one in Labor is focused; cease sucking up to the Corporate sector, shut your stupid bickering mouths, accept responsibility for all your inept decisions/actions, pull your thumbs out of your arses -- freeze Rudd out cos he ain't going nowhere and get on with forming a UNITED, effective, real opposition!

The truth is Abbott is intensely disliked by the public and is easily toppled; it's only because Labor has become it's own worst enemy that it handed election victory to Abbott; alone, misogynist and arch-conservative Abbott, the 'iron suppository dunce,' couldn't win a raffle -- the man has no vision whatsoever, he lacks, "people skills," he is totally dependent on others for policy ideas strategies and everything else!

It is also painfully obvious that Labor has yet to realise it lost primarily due to the fact that it ABANDONED ITS TRADITIONAL SUPPORT BASE, going farther right into Liberal territory assists the conservatives, you clowns, so why make it easy for them?

Labor was once the party of the worker with traditional social-ist values, the party of the little man, the Aussie battler -- why Labor handed that base over to the conservatives is anyone's guess, but Howard saw it immediately and exploited it to the hilt, he is now an Abbott adviser.

What destroyed Labor was the ideology of the NSW right and fuckin' Keating, servant to the Banks and Wall St. Dumping the Aussie battler was a huge mistake, which Labor has been paying (through the nose) for ever since. But has Labor realised they need to re-connect with their traditional support base, blue and white collar workers and battling families? It seems not as they are too busy infighting, AGAIN.

That's enough free consulting for now -- further diagnoses, recommendations, tactics and strategies incur a $1,000/hour professional consultancy fee -- you LOST, tragic, self-obsessed lamers!

<http://tinyurl.com/pedbb3b>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-806.html>