

Facing Political REALITY

by lor Saturday, Oct 5 2013, 10:21am

international / prose / post

I could write a long winded treatise on democracy, which would be an exercise in utter futility, as democracy has never existed, it was always an ideal, a theoretical political system. From the first days of its attempted implementation in ancient Greece evidence of corruption was recorded, in particular the detection of counterfeit pottery shards that ancient Greeks used for voting -- portends of things to come, some would say!

Democracy is a political dream sold to the moronic masses as reality; however, majority, as opposed to minority, rule is possible but it is entirely dependent on honesty and integrity, and as we know we are all too human and frail -- put simply we cheat, lie and steal and have always done so, we are a very sordid species -- that is the unfortunate REALITY.

Take a look at the supremely imbecilic US shutdown; did anyone vote for those idiots to hold the nation to ransom or play insular petty politics with the destiny of America and our lives, I think not? So rather than spend time in useless discourse about democratic dreamworlds or other utopian ideologies I would rather shunt us directly in to the sordid reality of human history and its replicate performances today -- the human condition hasn't changed since recorded history and why should it, we are all characteristically human -- violence is a way of life, face it!

I offer an effective political solution/alternative to the dilemma of today's minority rule, which system of politics hasn't changed since the time of the Pharaohs and THEIR slave societies -- that's right dunces, if the 'digital' chains fit, wear them!

To counter criminal rule, like a civilian killing Drone war president who boasts indefinite detention powers, a mafia-style kill list, and global surveillance abilities, we need only apply the same principles/policies that minority elites apply to us.

On every occasion that president, "you won't see it coming," kills an innocent civilian (that's us) we simply dispatch a Banker or Corporate director/CEO to their respective heaven or hell, whatever the case may be. In other words, shoot the murderers that hide behind the puppet politicians that do their bidding.

Elite criminals are not the only group that is able to flout the law or make legal what was formerly illegal! Anyone can dispatch ANYONE; Zionist Bankers, Corporatists and other Plutocrats become fair game -- understand that these people have no noble aspirations whatsoever, they are greed and power driven. Throughout human history these elites have slaughtered tens of millions of innocent people simply to maintain power and increase their wealth!

Shoot/hang them, torture them and think nothing of it, other than how much good you are doing humanity. Pursuing and dispatching plutocrats may indeed lead to a more balanced and equitable society, it certainly couldn't make things worse.

